1 What went well?

1. All group members attended every meeting on time and actively reported their work progress to support team cooperation.

2. When one member encountered a problem and raised it, a flexible meeting was held, and we would work it out together as a team.

3. Although the project was divided into two groups, front-end and backend, all the group members discussed the details in advance. As a result, the integration process was smooth.

4. Demo A: We completed all the tasks of sprint 1 listed in the proposal and the demonstration went well. The problems asked by the tutor during the demonstration were explained to his satisfaction.

2 What did not go well?

1. We did not prepare enough before the start of coding, especially backend.

2. We did not pay enough attention to documentations, README etc. which caused some redundant work.

3. Due to limited time, although the front-end and backend had completed integration, there was no time to beautify existing pages.

4. Backend group members should be more familiar with RestAPI and enhance the python flask application including model usage.

5. We did not use more data to test the possible bugs in both front-end and backend applications.
